

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, South Dakota is a state of individualists who have joined hands in building an enviable way of life for all who reside here; and

WHEREAS, the spirit of outstanding men who have had the courage to try the impossible is reflected in the pride that all South Dakotans take in their state; and

WHEREAS, Bell Telephone System has recognized two illustrious citizens of the state whose monumental accomplishments have evoked the admiration and awe of millions; and

WHEREAS, Gutzon Borglum, sculptor of Mount Rushmore Memorial, and Korczak Ziolkowski, sculptor of Crazy Horse Monument, are among individualists featured in the Bell Telephone System television special, "It Couldn't Be Done," appearing Thursday, April 2 on NBC-TV; and

WHEREAS, this recognition will encourage further interest in two gigantic attractions which already are viewed by more than two million visitors from this nation and abroad;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Frank L. Farrar, Governor of the State of South Dakota, do hereby proclaim April 2, 1970 as and encourage all citizens to view this television special at 6:30 p.m. on April 2, 1970, and to visit these great sculptures as they "See South Dakota" in 1970.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Seal of the State of South Dakota to be affixed this 26th day of March, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and seventy.

Frank L. Farrar
